RUMOR MILL:

Why is it always cold on the top floor of Bannan? Is there something we can do to raise the temperature just a little bit?

Bannan is an old building. Facilities is here quite often working on our HVAC system and we have found that keeping all three floors at optimal temperature is difficult. Feel free to shoot an email to Law Administrative Support to report issues if your fingers start going numb but my advice to you would be to dress in layers.

Exam Rescheduling for Administrative Reasons Deadline is March 2

Santa Clara – Stanford Conflict Resolution Workshop

Presents

When Ignorance Is Not Bliss An Empirical Study of Litigants' Awareness of Court-Sponsored ADR

Overburdened with litigants seeking civil justice, state courts increasingly have relied on ADR procedures to alleviate long waits for trials. But, these procedures provide little opportunity for justice to litigants who are unaware they exist. Professor Shestowsky will describe the findings of her multi-court study designed to answer questions concerning the dissemination of information about courts' dispute resolution programs. Among the questions we will explore are:

- How informed are litigants about court-sponsored ADR programs for which they qualify?
- How do represented litigants fare compared to their unrepresented counterparts?
- How does litigant awareness of court-connected dispute resolution programs affect the court?

Donna Shestowsky, a Professor of Law and Affiliated Faculty, Department of Psychology, at the University of California, Davis, teaches Negotiation Strategy, Alternative Dispute Resolution (ADR), and a Seminar in Legal Psychology. Her research examines assumptions underlying the structure of the legal system and explores ways the legal system might be improved using the methodological and analytic tools of psychological theory and research.

Please join us to examine this research and consider its implications for law schools, courts, and lawyers. As in all our workshops, engage with others to explore the applications of this study.

March 6, 2018, 12:45 – 2:00 pm

2018-2019 Workshops: During the next academic year, we will offer four workshops on topics as varied as restorative justice for high-risk adolescents, international negotiation, dispute systems design for mass tort settlements, resolution of cases involving medical error and civil discourse.

The Santa Clara–Stanford Conflict Resolution Workshop series is a collaboration of the conflict resolution programs at two law schools to bring nationally recognized practitioners and scholars to the Stanford and Santa Clara Law School communities and the general public. Through interactive programs, audiences explore issues of interest in the field of conflict resolution and engage in conversations across differences.
