

Victoria Zhou
VP and Assistant General Counsel
One Medical

Victoria Zhou is a VP and AGC at One Medical and based out of its San Francisco headquarters. Victoria leads the legal team that supports One Medical's technology organization, including Product, Engineering, Security, IT and Tech Compliance, and is also the legal lead for privacy, intellectual property and consumer matters. She studied at UC Santa Barbara for her B.A. and received her J.D. from UC Hastings. Previous to One Medical, Victoria held in-house counsel positions at NextG Networks (now Crown Castle), Check Point Technologies, and Samsung.

Victoria's foray into health care technology began at Samsung and went full-steam at One Medical. She's passionate about the transformative power of technology-enabled health care, especially when designed with patient trust and dignity at the center.

Victoria lives in the East Bay with her husband, two human boys and two canine girls. When not working, she would like to read and maybe binge Stranger Things, but usually ends up cleaning up after her kids.
